GURU NANAK INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

Guru Nanak Institute of Technology has organized Yoga day in GAMETRON on 21-06-2024 at 6:30AM. The management motivates students to yoga undoubtedly has become essential to lead a healthy lifestyle and a great away to keep fit physically and mentally. This year the theme of Yoga Day is 'Yoga for Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam' i.e. Yoga for the welfare of all in the form of 'One World-One Family'. It emphasizes the spirit of Yoga, which unites and takes everyone along. The principal addressed the students about the importance of yoga and meditation in life as well as career. He addressed the problems, which the students face in their daily life and its benefits by making it as a part and parcel. The training program ended successfully.

Webinar on “Artificial Intelligence and Deep Learning Applications using Python: Progress & Trends”

REPORT ON “Artificial Intelligence and Deep Learning Applications using Python: Progress & Trends”

Name of the Activity: “Artificial Intelligence and Deep Learning Applications using Python: Progress & Trends”

Speaker:

Dr. Sudarshan Iyengar,
Head of The Department (CSE),
Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) – Rupnagar, Punjab.

Date: 20.07.2023

Scope: As of my last knowledge update in January 2023, I can provide you with a general overview of the progress and trends in Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Deep Learning (DL) applications using Python. Keep in mind that the field is rapidly evolving, and there may have been further advancements and changes since then. Adaptation and innovation are extremely important to the manufacturing industry. This development should lead to sustainable manufacturing using new technologies. To promote sustainability, smart production requires global perspectives of smart production application technology. In this regard, thanks to intensive research efforts in the field of artificial intelligence (AI), a number of AI-based techniques, such as Deep Learning (DL), have already been established in the industry to achieve sustainable manufacturing. Thus, the aim of the present research was to analyze, systematically, the scientific literature relating to the application of artificial intelligence and Deep Learning (DL) in industry. In fact, with the introduction of the industry 4.0, artificial intelligence and machine learning are considered the driving force of smart factory revolution. The purpose of this review was to classify the literature, including publication year, authors, scientific sector, country, institution, and keywords. The analysis was done using the Web of Science and SCOPUS database. Furthermore, UCINET and N Vivo 12 software were used to complete them. A literature review on ML and AI empirical studies published in the last century was carried out to highlight the evolution of the topic before and after Industry 4.0 introduction, from 1999 to now. Eighty-two articles were reviewed and classified. A first interesting result is the greater number of works published by the USA and the increasing interest after the birth of Industry 4.0.

GURU NANAK INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

Conclusion:

This research focused on the study of the state of the art of AI and DL applications, selecting literature on what has now become a particularly hot topic in scientific research. The literature available on any subject is now wide and a complete coverage of all the documents published with respect to a particular topic can be challenging or even impossible. Therefore, a systematic selection of the most relevant literature was implemented.

This document provides a systematic review of applications in various scientific fields using DL techniques. For the selection of documents, objective and clear methods of investigation were used, independent of the experience of the researchers. Among the objectives of the document, it aimed to not only provide a comprehensive framework on the literature on the research of AI and DL but also a starting point for integrating knowledge through research in this area and to suggest future research paths. It is important to underline that this document was produced using only two databases, i.e., WoS and Scopus, in which only documents with open access were included. There are, therefore, many other documents with restricted access and other indexing databases, such as Google Scholar, that could be integrated for future research.

“ Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning

Edge Of Today & Tomorrow: The Vision of the AIoT”

Name of the Activity: “Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning Edge Of Today & Tomorrow: The Vision of the AIoT”

Speakers:

Dr. Aneet Chopra,
Vice President of XMOS.

Dr. Steven Willenborg,
MD of Linkplay.

Date: 10.11.2023

Scope:

Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Machine Learning (ML) education pillar, exploring the practical approach for AI & ML integration in audio product design and development. For this August 18 event, pillar chair Steven Willenborg invited XMOS, a company focused on embedded intelligence for edge-AI applications, now powering the artificial intelligence of things (AIoT), bringing AI, DSP, control and I/O together in a single device.

The Audio Product Education Institute (APEI) continues to explore the practical approach and development for smart audio product designs in multiple market segments. This AI and ML series of webinars intends to provide an introduction to the product development process, and explore the tools and technologies for designing and integrating AI & ML into products.

For this session, pillar chair Steven Willenborg (Linkplay Technology), invited XMOS, a leading provider of audio and digital signal processing platforms powering numerous consumer and professional audio solutions. The company's vision fully shifted towards offering edge-AI solutions for low-cost embedded systems. Voice is the most significant AI application in the market, and in 2019, XMOS introduced the highest performing far-field 2-mic voice-interface for just under a dollar. With its xcore.ai processors, XMOS is now powering the artificial intelligence of things (AIoT), which the company believes helps solve security, connectivity and scalability challenges.

The AIoT is in its nascent stages — but, according to Gartner, the market for it has huge potential, promising to be worth $3 trillion by 2025. This APEI webinar will explore the opportunities, examine potential applications, discuss the market and technical barriers, and introduce technical solutions that could be used to realize the vision of the AIoT within the audio space.

GURU NANAK INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

In this presentation, Aneet Chopra, Vice President of Product Marketing and Business Development at XMOS, explores deeper on how AI and voice is trending and what solutions on the edge would break the “intelligence on edge” barrier vs traditional approaches of cloud based solutions. The online session will showcase how XMOS is looking to provide voice solutions to address some of those challenges.

Aneet Chopra is responsible for paving the short- and long-term technology roadmap for XMOS in this space. He also leads driving partnerships and discovering new usage models for emerging technologies. Prior to joining XMOS, Aneet worked at Intel for 15+ years including engineering and operation with his last role as GM Compute vision for AR/VR at Intel. Aneet has 20+ years of industry and global work experience, with last 10+ years dedicated to building cognitive computing platforms including Speech, Depth, compute vision and Audio. He is passionate about innovation and building products as well as mentoring startups in Silicon Valley and Asia.

Conclusion:

This webinar focused on the study of the state of the art of AI and ML applications, selecting literature on what has now become a particularly hot topic in scientific research. The literature available on any subject is now wide and a complete coverage of all the documents published with respect to a particular topic can be challenging or even impossible. Therefore, a systematic selection of the most relevant literature was implemented.

This document provides a systematic review of applications in various scientific fields using ML techniques. For the selection of documents, objective and clear methods of investigation were used, independent of the experience of the researchers. Among the objectives of the document, it aimed to not only provide a comprehensive framework on the literature on the research of AI and ML but also a starting point for integrating knowledge through research in this area and to suggest future research paths. It is important to underline that this document was produced using only two databases, i.e., WoS and Scopus, in which only documents with open access were included. There are, therefore, many other documents with restricted access and other indexing databases, such as Google Scholar, that could be integrated for future research.

REPORT ON “Edge Computing using AWS”

Name of the Activity: “Cloud Computing using AWS”

Speakers:

Mr. Nitish Tipparaju,
Enterprise Support Lead, AWS.

Mr. Shailu Tipparaju,
Chief Innovative Officer, Examity.

Scope:

Edge computing with Amazon Web Services (AWS) involves using a variety of services and resources provided by AWS to build, deploy, and manage applications and infrastructure in the cloud. AWS offers a comprehensive set of services, including computing power, storage, databases, machine learning, analytics, security, and more.

In this presentation, Aneet Chopra, Vice President of Product Marketing and Business Development at XMOS, explores deeper on how AI and voice is trending and what solutions on the edge would break the “intelligence on edge” barrier vs traditional approaches of cloud-based solutions. The online session will showcase how XMOS is looking to provide voice solutions to address some of those challenges.

GURU NANAK INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

In 2006, Amazon Web Services (AWS) started to offer IT services to the market in the form of web services, which is nowadays known as cloud computing. With this cloud, we need not plan for servers and other IT infrastructure which takes up much of time in advance. Instead, these services can instantly spin up hundreds or thousands of servers in minutes and deliver results faster. We pay only for what we use with no up-front expenses and no long-term commitments, which makes AWS cost efficient.

Amazon Web Services (AWS), a subsidiary of Amazon.com, has invested billions of dollars in IT resources distributed across the globe. These resources are shared among all the AWS account holders across the globe. This account themselves are entirely isolated from each other. AWS provides on-demand IT resources to its account holders on a pay-as-you-go pricing model with no upfront cost. Amazon Web services offers flexibility because you can only pay for services you use or you need. Enterprises use AWS to reduce capital expenditure of building their own private IT infrastructure.

AWS has its own Physical fiber network that connects with Availability zones, regions and Edge locations. All the maintenance cost is also taken care by the AWS which saves a fortune for the enterprises. Today, AWS provides a highly reliable, scalable, low-cost infrastructure platform in the cloud that powers multitude of businesses in 190 countries around the world.

Conclusion:

This webinar focused on the study of Cloud Computing using AWS, it's crucial to consider factors such as security, cost optimization, scalability, and best practices for architecture. AWS provides extensive documentation, tutorials, and resources to help users get started and optimize their cloud environments. Additionally, the AWS Management Console and AWS CLI are tools commonly used to interact with and manage AWS resources.
